LINDEMANS®

Early Harvest Semillon Sauvignon Blanc 2007

Founded by Henry Lindeman in 1843, LINDEMANS has consistently crafted award winning, popular wines making it one of Australia's most enduring and respected winemakers. In keeping with this tradition LINDEMANS has created a new product called Early Harvest, a uniquely refreshing range of wines that are lower in alcohol than many Australian wines.

The LINDEMANS Winemaking Team, led by Chief Winemaker Wayne Falkenberg, set out to develop a range of crisp, light wines that are on average 30% lighter in alcohol. These wines are not as rich as traditional wines making them easier to drink and more approachable.

LINDEMANS Early Harvest wines are created from selected parcels of grapes harvested earlier in the season and contain lower levels of sugar, the primary ingredient for creating alcohol. This early harvested fruit creates uniquely refreshing wines that are perfect for all occasions.

Regional Source

Murray Darling

Vintage Conditions

Fruit for this wine was sourced from the Murray Darling grape growing areas of South Eastern Australia. The 2007 vintage in the Murray Valley was warm to hot ensuring ample fruit ripening with ripe varietal characters.

Grape Variety

Semillon, Sauvignon Blanc

Maturation

Carefully selected parcels of Semillon and Sauvignon Blanc were fermented cool with selected yeast and blended to provide the best characteristics of each varietal. This wine was bottled soon after blending to capture the fresh varietal flavours.

Winemaker Comments: Hayden Donohue

Colour

Pale yellow with lime tinges.

Nose

The nose shows passionfruit and melon aromas.

Palate

The fresh fruit flavours of Semillon and cut grass and lychee flavours of Sauvignon Blanc are balanced by the crisp dry finish, providing an easy drinking style of wine.
